

When you develop Web Applications, and you display messages to the user, it is nice to make them as clear as possible. In addition, colors can give the user a quick look on what is going on.

Here's some example of message boxes using css3 that might be helpful for your Website.

Info message

Successful operation message

Warning message

Error message

Here's the source

```
.info, .success, .warning, .error {
  border: 1px solid;
  margin: 15px 0px;
